

A Student/Practitioner Event
Sponsored by NY Metro Informs Chapter
& Pace University
February 21, 2008 at Pace University

International and Domestic perspectives on:
“A Day in the Life of an Analytical Problem Solver”

Question and Answer session with practitioners

Meet with OR/Financial Engineers, Training and Information Systems Managers,
Market Researchers, and Management Science Practitioners

Panelists include:

- Robert A. Ameo, Director, Business Development of the Medical Device & Diagnostics Group for Johnson & Johnson.
- Andrew Kalotay, president of Andrew Kalotay Associates, a leading authority on debt management or Deane Yang, the Director of Research.
- Michael Lapson, a Transportation Economist with Moffatt & Nichol, providing consulting services regarding port infrastructure.
- Ilse Martin, Quality Training Leader and a certified Master Black Belt in Six Sigma for GE's Corporate Information Services.
- William Mills, Manager of Application Services & Operations in Client Services, with Pearson Publishing's Office of the CIO and formerly with IBM Global Services.
- Dan Parzych, VP Data Solutions & Services and leader of Alliant's Analytics and Database teams, using risk management and customer-acquisition modeling for direct marketers.
- Rich Solomon, a Principal with the New York Strategy consultancy, Novantas, creating models in the retail banking sector.

Date: Thursday February 21, 2008, 6 pm to 9 pm

Location: 1 Pace Plaza at Pace University in the Multipurpose Room
(Park Row entrance opposite City Hall)

Light refreshments served

Contact: Susan Werbin NY Informs College Relations Chair
212 799-6111 susan@werbins.com

For more details visit: <http://nymetro.chapter.informs.org/>